

WILSON AWAITS FULL DETAILS

Gravity of Germany's Act Depends on Whether Warning Was Given.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—Pres't Wilson and Sec'y of State Lansing waited anxiously Thursday night for the full details of the sinking of the White Star liner Arabic by a German submarine, as upon the incident may depend the future relations of the United States and Germany.

State department officials say that the gravity of Germany's act, so far as the United States is concerned cannot be determined until it is known definitely whether there were Americans on board and whether the submarine before making the attack, called upon the vessel to stop. It would be intensified, of course, if there was a loss of American lives.

In its last note to Germany on the subject of neutral rights this government summarized the principles which it insists must be observed. They were:

Held Seas Were Free.

"That the high seas are free; that the character and cargo of a merchantman must first be ascertained before she can lawfully be seized or destroyed and that the lives of non-combatants may in no case be put in jeopardy unless the vessel resists or attempts to escape after being summoned to submit to examination."

Elsewhere in the note the United States gave this warning:

"Repetition by the commanders of German naval vessels of acts in contravention of those rights must be regarded by the government of the United States, when they affect American citizens, as deliberately unfriendly."

If it should develop that the German submarine made no effort to stop the vessel by warning shots or other means and the lives of any Americans on board were lost or even endangered because of the German commander's failure to observe the rights of neutrals for which this government contends, the sinking of the Arabic will be accepted by the state department as a defiant act by Germany in violation of the warning so recently given. It is admitted, would make the issue between the two governments more acute than ever.

No Issue If Warned.

If, on the other hand, it is disclosed that the submarine made an effort to halt the Arabic and sank it only when it attempted to escape, this government isn't likely to raise an issue regarding the incident, even if Americans were lost.

The United States has expressed its views repeatedly on the subject. In its note of June 9 to Germany, it said: "Nothing but actual forcible resistance or continued efforts to escape by flight when ordered to stop for the purpose of visit on the part of the merchantman has ever been held to forfeit the lives of the passengers and crew."

NO WARNING GIVEN.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—The state department received the following dispatch from Vice Consul Thompson at Queenstown:

"Survivors state that ship was torpedoed without warning and sank in 11 minutes. Excellent discipline prevailed. In all 21 boats were lowered, but all were picked up by rescue boats. Other boats were empty. No authentic information as yet as to whether any or how many were lost."

The following is a list of the American survivors:

"A. Heilme Nebeker, Logan, Utah; James Houlahan, Philadelphia; Thomas Elmore, New York; George A. McAllister, Chambersburg, Pa.; James T. Rowley, Chicago; Mr. and Mrs. Covington, New York and London; Louis Bruguire, New York; John Olson, St. Francis; Mr. and Mrs. Philip Collier, Buffalo; Miss Sadie Shrimpton, Syracuse, N. Y.; Claude McRoodie, Schenectady, N. Y.; John Nolan, John Olschewski and Christopher McTanner, Trenton."

Hotel is Hit By Hurricane

HOTEL GALVEZ, GALVESTON

GALVESTON, Aug. 19.—It is considered remarkable that the loss of life in the great hurricane which swept this city on Monday night and Tuesday morning was not appalling. The hotel Galvez, which faces the seawall, received the brunt of the storm, but escaped with slight damage.

VORTICIST BLAST NO. 2 HIGHLY EXPLOSIVE

New Publication to Appear in London is Described as a "Bolt From the Blue Sky."

LONDON, Aug. 20.—Vorticist "Blast" No. 2 is highly explosive. The first number of the paper which was issued before the war, was described by the editor as "Cooling water, a pleasant light." No. 2 might be described "as a bolt from the blue."

It regards every enemy of the Vorticist school, as a certain sort of blackguard who uses the "blood of the soldiers for his own everyday domestic uses. He washes his every dirty linen in the Press with this very sacred blood."

But anyway, the "Blast" sides with the allies in its anti-German attitude. Perhaps the gem of the number is a series of sentences written from the trenches by the gallant Vorticist sculptor Henri-Gaudier-Brzesko, who bravely met his death, after much distinction in a charge at Neville St. Vaast. He says:

"With all the destruction that works around us nothing is changed, even superficially. Life is the same strength, the moving agent that permits the small individual to assert himself. He proceeds, 'Just as the hill where the Germans are solidly entrenched gives me a nasty feeling solely because the gentle slopes are broken up by earthworks which throw long shadows at sunset, just so shall I get feeling of whatsover definition from a statue according to its slopes, varied to infinity.'"

"I have made an experiment. Two days ago I pinched from an enemy a Mauser rifle. Its heavy shape awed me. I was in doubt for a long time whether it pleased or displeased me. I found I did not like it. I broke the butt off and with my knife I carved on it a design which I tried to express a gentler order of feeling which I preferred. But I will emphasize that my design got its effect (just as the gun had) from a very simple composition of lines and planes."

MAY VACATE PETROGRAD

Russ Government Thinking of Moving to Moscow.

BERLIN, Aug. 20.—According to Petrograd papers just arrived here the Russian government is seriously considering the removal of its seat to Moscow or some other large city in the interior of the empire. This step may be taken if Riga falls into the hands of the Germans. The minister of justice Stichegiewitow has submitted the plan to the czar, but the ruler does not favor it, as he considers an attack on the capital highly improbable, and does not believe that the unrest of the socialist working classes will lead to serious uprisings.

WANTS LIMIT PUT ON BIG FORTUNES

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—Chairman Frank P. Walsh of the federal commission of industrial relations, and the three labor representatives on the board, have prepared a report after the two years' work by the commission advocating that congress enact laws confiscating upon inheritance all great fortunes in excess of $1,000,000.

In other words Mr. Walsh would limit the inheritance of any American to $1,000,000. All in excess would go to the government.

Prof. Commons, Mrs. J. Borden Harcourt and three other members of the commission, composing the majority, refused to give serious consideration to such a proposal.

Seats are now selling at the Orpheum for the opening performances Sunday. The first bill consists of Henry B. Toomer and company in a comedy playlet, "The Awakening of Mr. Pimp." James Collins, monologist, Harris and Marion, popular song singers, Ford and Hewitt, dancing novelty, and Lohsee and Sterling, bar act.

THE AUDITORIUM.

When Rose Coghlan consented to go into moving pictures, another great actress was added to the big list of celebrated stars who have yielded to the lure of the screen. Miss Coghlan is the star to be seen at the Auditorium today in the title role of "The Sporting Duchess" from the famous play of the same name. Miss Coghlan has as co-stars in this production, Ethel Clayton and George Soule Spencer who were recently seen here in "The College Widow."

"The Sporting Duchess" is a powerful play of intrigue and diplomacy and unfolds opportunities plenty for some of the most clever tableaux ever shown on the screen. The incidents around the race track and stables are said to be strikingly realistic, the climax being a horse race, taken at one of the biggest tracks in the world. "The Sporting Duchess" is a fascinating play, not only because it touches a spectacular side of sporting life, but because its chief characters are English army officers, and the plot carries one from England to India and back. Where marching soldiers are required to emphasize an episode, whole regiments of grenadiers swing by, thus making the story both complete and alluring. "Some Duel," a Vitagraph comedy with Flora Finch, Kate Price, William Shea and Hughie Mack is also on the bill today. Tomorrow's program includes "A Man Afraid," a three act Essanay with Richard Travers, "The Call of Motherhood," a Lubin drama, "Snakey's Twins," "Dreary Dud" and the Selig weekly of current news.

AT THE INDIANA.

Today is comedy day at the Indiana when "Tillie's Punctured Romance" will be shown to the patrons of this theater. The star cast engaged for this production includes, Charles Chaplin, Marie Dressler and Mabel Normand. These names were of a sufficient guarantee of the merits of the picture to attract unusual attention when it was first released. It has been shown for a number of months throughout the country, but never as yet has there been found a comedy that equals it. Miss Dressler was a recognized comedienne, appearing at the head of her own companies in first class theaters. In the character of Tillie, the stupid, peasant girl, who inherits a fortune and is pursued by persistent suitors, including the funny Charlie Chaplin, she furnishes the principal motive of the comedy. Many of the scenes are elaborate, as well as humorous, and one in particular, the ballroom of a palace, is magnificent.

Saturday's program at the Indiana introduces an English comedian, Billy Reeves, in a laughable comedy, "Just Like Kids." Another picture, "The Counter Intrigue," is in three acts and was a prize mystery play produced in conjunction with the Ladies' World. "The Claim of Honor," is a dramatic story of an American's bravery in representing an insult to an American girl. The underline for Monday at the Indiana is "Judith of Bethulia," an elaborate production staged by the creator of "The Birth of a Nation."

AT THE LASALLE.

"The Fighting Hope," at the Lasalle today, is the picture in which Laura Hope Crews is to make her photodramatic debut under the joint direction of Jesse L. Lasky and David Belasco. It is the sixth in the series of Lasky-Belasco offerings. The first in the series was "The Rose of the Rancho," and the others, in succession, have been "The Girl of the Golden West," "Blanche Sweet in 'The Warrens of Virginia,'" "Edith Wynne Mathison in 'The Governor's Lady,'" and the star production of "The Woman." It will be noted that the last three of the series—"The Governor's Lady," "The Woman" and "The Fighting Hope"—are all modern American plays dealing with domestic or business or political problems of our daily life. There is very reason to believe that "The Fighting Hope" will be even more successful than either of the other two, though it may be truthfully said that few photoplays have ever received such praise as "The Governor's Lady" and "The Woman."

It appears that dramas of this nature, with the strong heart-interest, personal appeal, are now especially in demand, and this is one reason why Mr. Lasky and Mr. Belasco are at present offering these subjects in particular. On the same program will be seen a comedy, "The Village Smithy."

Saturday the Lasalle features "Leah the Forsaken," a well known drama that has stood the test for years, and will be seen for the first time on the screen. This is a three-reel number with an excellent cast including, Vivian Prescott and William E. Shay. This is a re-issue of a story of Jewish persecution, some of the actors being of Yiddish descent. The plot is a strong one, depicting the pathetic plight of a Jewish girl abandoned by her Gentile lover as the result of the treacherous interference of one of her own race.

On the same program will be seen a comedy and a Paramount travel picture.

THE ORPHEUM.

Seats are now selling at the Orpheum for the opening performances Sunday. The first bill consists of Henry B. Toomer and company in a comedy playlet, "The Awakening of Mr. Pimp." James Collins, monologist, Harris and Marion, popular song singers, Ford and Hewitt, dancing novelty, and Lohsee and Sterling, bar act.
